The dirt roads and even the gravel roads were torn up by the rushing waters and when the street department made their rounds of the storm water manholes, a large part of the roadbeds that were missing were found therein. Manholes at the corner of North and Main, at the corner of Main and Jackson, and at the corner of Main and Jackson were found to be heavy holders of dirt. The manhole at the last named intersection of streets, which was found to be the worst, was within three feet of the top with parts of Main and Jackson streets. in their August pay envelopes. A day of conferences between presidents of the eighteen unions recognized in the award and 1,000 general chairmen of those organizations failed to develop any common ground on which the leaders were willing to issue a statement.

Two days and a night of meetings have failed to bring the leaders together, and W. G. Lee, grand president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, indicated the presidents would have no recommendation to make to the general chairman before tomorrow.

The first reported strike was recorded in Chicago late today when about 100 Grand Trunk railroad employees walked out to accompany estimates. Strikers, however, claimed 900 men figured in the walkout. Company officers said no demands had been presented and that was presumed the men were dissatisfied with the rail board decision.

From a few cities came reports that the men had voted to reject the award and stand on their original demands, but the ones so voting remained at work. The decision to be made by the brotherhood officers tomorrow may have an important effect on the future of the organizations, in the opinion of observers who have made a study of the railroad wage demands.

It is no secret that for months there has been dissension within the union ranks and an outspoken dissatisfaction over the failure of the union officers to obtain for their men the raises they demanded.

It was this dissatisfaction which culminated in the sporadic strikes in April. Men who joined the new unions and walked out insisted they were tired of the policy pursued by the "labor politicians" and that they wanted a "new deal."

TO BUILD APARTMENT HOUSE WITH "DISAPPEARING BEDS"
New York, July 21.—Residents of Manhattan Island, in their eternal fight for space, have perked up their ears at the announcement that a New York realty syndicate that it will build a 450,000 apartment house, whose distinguishing feature will be "disappearing beds" that will take during the day time. They dismiss the matter as a joke, saying that the syndicate and many other labor saving devices will be installed.

Architects, however, have given their opinion on the project. They say that the architects say that a "disappearing bed" is a bed that can be folded up like a table and can be slipped under the bath tub or tucked away in a closet or in a trap door in the floor and an Oriental rug placed over it so that the tell-tale tracks may not be seen.

The apartment house of the "disappearing" beds, the syndicate announces, is to be built of West End avenue, Manhattan.

BREED THEATRE.

In giving to the public his latest screen effort, The Mollified, which is the third in his series of theatrical productions, Douglas Fairbanks presents the most costly motion picture of his career, representing an expenditure of more than half a million dollars. The picture will be presented at the Breed theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

The enormous cost of The Mollified was due to the great desire to conduct the policy he inaugurated when he became an independent producer and member of the Big Four. At that time he declared that money would be no object and that it would be his aim, with each succeeding production, to eclipse all previous efforts.

That Fairbanks was not merely talking when he announced his intentions was evidenced with the release of his first and second United Artists offerings in which it was plainly seen that considerable money and time had been spent to place entirely new material on the screen. Especially so in his last picture, When the Clouds Roll By, considered to be one of the greatest novelty productions ever filmed.

Even greater effort has been made to surpass the more prominent episodes of entertainment when the "Clouds Roll By" with The Mollified. To make this possible the star devoted ten weeks in preparation of the story, working out numerous innovations which have been perfected more surprisingly than anticipated.

Other pictures on the bill include the Fuchs and a Century comedy.

AT THE DAVIS.

Today The Girls from Happyland will offer the big scenic production Snowstorm, introducing a snow storm at the risk of the curtain. There is a strong plot running through the entire bill. It deals with one Hiram Perkins, whose son ran away to join a circus, when by some unfortunate accident the train on which the show that he is now the manager of is wrecked and near his father's farm. Owing to the hotel being unable to accommodate his company, they are brought to his father's farm, where the fun begins. The comedy roles of Hiram and the sheriff are in the hands of Happy Harry Moore and Jack Simonds, while the live wire comedienne and dancer, Babe Miller, is in a word, the star of the show. The picture is a different than the so-called prima donnas. Now don't forget the place and that all roads lead to the Davis. The real place of amusement of a higher order. Societal attention is called to the costumes that are worn by the ladies during this engagement. So take this chance, Mr. Davis Business Man, and your pleasure seeking wife, and witness The Girls from Happyland Co.

The feature picture today is Will Russell in Six Foot Four, a six-part special production from the famous novel by Jackson Gregory. This is one of the finest pictures Mr. Russell has ever appeared in and one that you will enjoy. To complete the program there will be one of Mack Sennett's latest comedies, entitled Fresh From The City, two thousand feet of nothing but laughter. Another change of program Friday.
